MONEY FROM OYSTERS

The State's Income This Year Will Amount to $70,000.

Still Larger Sum Expected-The Revenu

Board of Fisheries this year is a subject of the deepest gratification to Governor Tyler, as well as all other patriotic citizens of the State. The report, which is in the hands of the printer, shows a net income to the State from her oyster-beds of about $70,000 for the fiscal year ending September 30th.

The law puting the oyster and fishery industries under the control of a board of five men was pased at the legislative of five men was pased at the legislative session of 1897-'98. Previous to that time the oyster-beds owned by the State cost very much more than they yielded in the way of revenue. The de-ficit had amounted to as much as $39,-000 a year. In other words, the board has saved $150,000 to the State during the thirty months of its existence.

THEY WANTED MORE.

The splendid showing of $70,000 is spoken of somewhat apologetically by the members of the board. They had hoped the amount would be larger, and it would have been but for extraordinary expenses incurred. This was chiefly due to the beginning of the survy of planting-grounds, which work will be completed as rapidly as possible. The planting-grounds of two counties have been surveyed. It is estimated that the survey will immensely increase the extent of the Scate's beds, and, consequently, very much increase the revenue.

MR. KAYTON'S STATEMENT.

NO CONNECTION WITH OLYMPIA IN BALTIMORE WHERE O'DON-NELL DIED. The Virginian-Pilot of yesterday

published the following item from the

"On account of the death of Thomas A. O'Donnell, 1217 K street northeast, Washington, at the City Hospital Sunday from alcoholism, the police board yesterday issued an order that an effort be made to arrest A. J. Kayton, in whose name the liquor license for the Olympia Theatre, No. 3 North Gay street, is said to have been issued."

He was formerly the proprietor of the Atlantic Garden here. He called at the office of the Vir-

He called at the office of the Virginian-Pilot yesterday morning and said he was astonished to learn, from a statement in the Virginian-Pilot, that his arrest had been ordered and that he was wanted in Raltimore.

He said that he went first to police headquarters and learned that there is no warrant for his arrest there, and stated that he could be found at his residence here when wanted.

In regard to the death of the man O'Donnell in Battimore, Mr. Kayton said he had no knowledge whatever. He left Baltimore on the 20th of April and has not been there since.

Mr. Kayton stated further that he cause.

The left Baltimore on the 29th of April and has not been there since.

Mr. Kayton stated further that he ran the theatre as the Kayton Olympia till about April 15th, when he sold the lease, the stock, the license, and everything connected with the house to Bernard Louis, his nephew, and left the city a few days afterward. He says he has no connection with the house now, and derives no income from it. The license he held expired the last of April.

After selling his business in Baltimore, Mr. Kayton says he went with Bostock's Carnival Company, No. 3, and was with that organization till July, when a cyclone wrecked the tents at West Superior, Wis. Since that time he has been in Norfolk.

The satement of the Baltimore Sun is that "the police board is having a rigid investigation made of the circumstances surrounding the death of Thomas A. O'Donnell, the Washington contractor, who died of alcoholism at the City Hospital last Sunday after spending about eight hours at the Olympia Theatre, on Gay street.

HANCOCK-STRINGER FIGHT.

Ben Hancock paid a fine of $7.25 in the police court on Friday morning for assaulting J. W. Stringer, of Lambert's Point. After court the two men met on Brewer street and had a second difficulty, during which Hancock struck Stringer with a hatchet.

At Lambert's Point on Friday evening the men again met and Stringer fired five bullets at Hancock. One of the shots struck Hancock in the left wrist and the others went wide.

The trouble between the men on Brewer street on Friday was investigated by Police Justice Taylor yesterday, Hancock being arraigned on two
